

State-by-State Overview: Rules for Changing Gender Markers on Birth Certificates

Updated: April 2017

The policies for changing gender markers on birth certificates vary state by state, resulting in a complicated patchwork of processes across the country. Below, we overview which states have a process for updating gender markers on birth certificates, and provide the basic outline of what those states' policies look like.

Note that court-ordered gender changes are only available in the state of residence, not the state of birth, that they are not available in all states, and that these requirements also vary by state.

Does the state allow a gender marker change on birth certificates?

Alabama: Yes, with a court order "indicating that the sex of an individual born in this state has been changed by surgical procedure." See § 22-9A-19 at <https://www.adph.org/vitalrecords/assets/VitalStatsLaw.pdf>

Alaska: Law does not explicitly provide for gender marker correction, but the Dept. of Vital Records will correct; there is no surgical requirement. See <http://www.transequality.org/documents/state/alaska>

Arizona: Yes, with a letter from a physician stating the applicant "has undergone a sex change operation." See 36-337.A.3 at <http://www.azleg.gov/ars/36/00337.htm>

Arkansas: Yes, with a court order "indicating that the sex of an individual born in this state has been changed by surgical procedure." See § 20-18-307(d) at <http://law.justia.com/codes/arkansas/2010/title-20/subtitle-2/chapter-18/subchapter-3/20-18-307>

California: Yes, with a doctor's letter; there is no surgical requirement. See CA HSC Sec. 103426 at https://leginfo.legislature.ca.gov/faces/codes_displaySection.xhtml?sectionNum=103426.&lawCode=HSC

Colorado: Yes, with a court order "indicating that the sex of an individual born in this state has been changed by surgical procedure." See 25-2-115 at http://tornado.state.co.us/gov_dir/leg_dir/olls/2013TitlePrintouts/CRS%20Title%2025%20\(2013\).pdf.pdf)

Connecticut: Yes, with a doctor's letter; there is no surgical requirement. See Public Act 15-132 at <http://www.ct.gov/dph/cwp/view.asp?a=3132&q=388134#Amend>

District of Columbia: Yes, with a doctor's letter; there no surgical requirement. See D.C. Act 20-27 at <http://lims.dccouncil.us/Download/29298/B20-0142-SignedAct.pdf>

Delaware: Yes, with a court order "indicating that the sex of an individual born in this state has been changed by surgical procedure." See 10.9.4 at <http://dhss.delaware.gov/DPH/hp/vsregs.html>

Florida: Law does not explicitly provide for gender marker correction, but it is possible with a doctor's letter. See 64V-1.003 at <https://www.flrules.org/gateway/RuleNo.asp?ID=64V-1.003> and, for more info, <http://www.transequality.org/documents/state/florida>

Georgia: Yes, with a court order "indicating that the sex of an individual born in this state has been changed by surgical procedure." See § 31-10-23(e) at <http://law.justia.com/codes/georgia/2010/title-31/chapter-10/31-10-23>

Hawaii: Yes, with a doctor's letter; there is no surgical requirement. See §338-17.7(a)(4)-(5) at http://www.capitol.hawaii.gov/hrscurrent/vol06_ch0321-0344/hrs0338/hrs_0338-0017_0007.htm

Idaho: Law generally provides for correction, but Idaho Office of Vital Statistics reports that they do not currently amend birth certificates for gender transition. See <http://www.lambda-legal.org/know-your-rights/article/trans-changing-birth-certificate-sex-designations>

Illinois: Yes, with a doctor's letter; surgery may not be required. See <http://www.idph.state.il.us/vitalrecords/births/Pages/gender-reassignment.htm>

Indiana: Law does not explicitly provide for gender marker correction, but it is possible; it requires a court order. IC 16-37-2-10(b) at https://iga.in.gov/static-documents/c/d/8/c/cd8cd418/TITLE16_AR37_ch2.pdf and, for more information, <http://www.transequality.org/documents/state/indiana>

Iowa: Yes, with a doctor's letter; surgery may not be required. See § 144.23(3) at <https://www.legis.iowa.gov/docs/code/2015/144.23.pdf>

Kansas: Law generally provides for correction of gender marker, but Kansas Division of Vital Statistics claims that they do not have the authority to amend birth certificates for gender transition. Transgender Law Center is currently suing the state of Kansas over this stance: <https://transgenderlawcenter.org/archives/12543>.

Kentucky: Yes; requires "a sworn statement by a licensed physician indicating that the gender of an individual born in the Commonwealth has been changed by surgical procedure." See Ky. Rev. Stat. Ann. 213.121 at <http://www.lrc.ky.gov/Statutes/statute.aspx?id=8741>

Louisiana: Yes; surgery is required. See La. R.S. 40:62 at <http://law.justia.com/codes/louisiana/2006/48/98725.html>

Maine: Law does not explicitly provide for gender marker correction, but it is possible; it requires a doctor's letter, but surgery may not be required. Title 22, § 2705 at <http://legislature.maine.gov/statutes/22/title22sec2705.html> and, for more information, <http://www.transequality.org/documents/state/maine>

Maryland: Yes, with a doctor's letter or court order; there is no surgical requirement. See SB0743 at <http://mgaleg.maryland.gov/2015RS/bills/sb/sb0743T.pdf> and the fact sheet available at <http://dhmh.maryland.gov/vsa/Documents/Sex%20change%20instructions.pdf>
